CATALOG #59 - FALL 2025

Mark E. Cox

WWW.SOUTHEASTERNOUTDOOR.COM

Fellow Outdoorsmen,

Greetings from beautiful Virginia. Here is our 2025-2026 catalog #59. We hope this issue finds you well, and hopefully you're gearing up for this coming trapping season. We have plenty of inventory to fulfill all of your trapping and hunting needs. Order early to avoid any future shortages. You will notice some increases in traps and metal goods.

If you do not see an item you want that's not listed in the catalog or on the website, feel free to give us a call. We have a large inventory of hunting, clothing, boots, muzzleloading, and archery supplies that are not listed in the catalog.

Once again it seems that the fur prices are mostly stagnant - with some upticks in the Beaver, Bobcat and Otter markets. Hopefully we will see all fur prices on the incline again.

Do not trap early - let the fur get prime. Take a youngster with you hunting and trapping. Be sure to support your state and National Trappers Associations - they are the future of our sport. If you receive more than one catalog, please pass one to a friend. Thank you for the orders last season and throughout the years!

Sincerely,

Jonathan Hundley - President

This call has a removable mouthpiece, which can be used alone to produce the various pitches ranging from fawn distress calls, pup whines to rabbit screams. It is easy to use and is small which makes it great for compact carry. The shrill wake-up calls of the Ki-Yi will definitely get their attention.

This Hot Dog™ is one bad dog! Fool those educated coyotes. The mouthpiece detaches from the horn to sound like two distinctly different coyotes. This will give you the edge during mating season and battling over territorial boundaries. The Hot Dog™ is super loud making it a great locator call. It's also versatile enough to create distress calls of birds, cottontails, jackrabbits, pups, fawns and deer. This large howler's mouthpiece alone creates smooth sounding howls. The horn adds rasp and volume to your calling.

085-0351

$27.95
